

Look what the Lafayette Society was up to in 2014!

American Friends of Lafayette president Alan Hoffman talks with Lafayette Society Board member Franklin Clark, Lafayette's wife Adrienne, and Lafayette himself during the AFL's annual meeting here in Fayetteville in June.

In November, the Society hosted a book signing and discussion in the Market House by author and historian Laura Auricchio, Dean of Undergraduate Studies at the New School in New York City.

Robert Crout (right), Lafayette historian and adjunct professor at the College of Charleston, enjoys a French "pique-nique" inside the Market House after a tour of the Lafayette Trail during the annual Lafayette Birthday celebrations.

Patches are a big deal in Scouting, so this one – the first produced after the formation of the Lafayette District – is sure to be an instant collectable!

Society members and students examine recent Lafayette Collection donations from Gene Dillman at the "Arias and Artifacts" program held at Methodist University in September.

Boy Scouts helped serve cake and ice cream at the Lafayette Birthday party in the park.

In November, the Lafayette Society and the American Friends of Lafayette presented a collection of books about Lafayette to Alger B. Wilkins High School.

Members of the Lafayette Society and the American Friends of Lafayette relax at the pig pickin' in June after the AFL meeting.

Participants in the Chamber of Commerce's Leadership Fayetteville program were presented with a copy of Lafayette: Lessons in Leadership from the Idealist General.

Get your Lafayette "rock concert" t-shirt today at City Center Gallery & Books in Downtown Fayetteville!

There's plenty more to come in 2015 – stay tuned, and please join us!